Foreword

INSPIRED BY THE SPIRIT OF FOND DU LAC HIGH SCHOOL—FOR YEARS THE INSPIRATION OF ITS STUDENTS—THE STAFF AND EDITORS OF LIFE HAVE BEEN DILIGENT IN THEIR ATTEMPT TO EMBODY THE SOURCE OF ITS INSPIRATION IN THE ENSUING PAGES OF OUR ANNUAL. BECAUSE OF THEIR LABOR, THE STAFF HOPES THAT THE SPIRIT OF FOND DU LAC HIGH SCHOOL MAY BE SUFFICIENTLY IN PRESENCE TO BE RECOGNIZED BY THE READERS OF LIFE

Dedication

TO THE SPIRIT OF FOND DU LAC HIGH SCHOOL, A SPIRIT WHICH IS MARKED BY DEVOTED AND LOYAL ENTHUSIASM AND WHICH HAS REVEALED ITSELF FROM THE EAR LIEST HIGH SCHOOL DAYS TO TODAY IN SERVICE, IN COURAGE, IN FIDELITY, AND IN LOFTY IDEAL ISM, WE, THE SENIORS OF THE FOND DU LAC HIGH SCHOOL, GRATE FULLY DEDICATE THE TWENTY FIRST VOLUME OF LIFE

School Spirit

A true spirit of any institution is necessarily unobtrusive and strong in proportion to its quietness. The true spirit dwells with the things that are the essence of the institution. The true spirit watches with a jealous eye those things that are fundamental. In a school those things are first and last.

Knowledge—knowledge of the higher kind, knowledge of the things that pertain to the mind, and heart, and soul—to attend to these matters is to have a true school spirit.

The School Toast

Oh Fondy High! Oh Fondy High!
A song to thee we raise!
Oh Fondy High! Oh Fondy High!
We lift our voice in praise!
A glorious life in thee we live,
Our grateful hearts to thee we give,
Oh Fondy High! Oh Fondy High!

Oh Fondy High! Oh Fondy High!
We raise our banners bright.
Oh Fondy High! Oh Fondy High!
The symbol of the right.
We lift our voices loud and clear,
We sound thy praises far and near,
Oh Fondy High! Oh Fondy High!
Oh Fondy High!

School Song

Where e'er I go
I'll sing for dear
Old Fondy, dear Fondy.
Now let us cheer
So all can hear
Our praises for dear Fondy High !
We love you so
And all bend low
For Fondy, For Fondy!

Helen Ley.

Dear Irma:
I hope that you will have a good time during vacation. With loads of luck in the future the Gods of Greece should bestow upon you. With Love. Howard Krogp. '30"

History of Mid-Year Senior Class

TO the class of February, 1929, comes the privilege of being the first mid-year graduating class of Fond du Lac High School. We have been pioneers, leading on in athletics, in scholarship, in cheer leading, and in school spirit.

We have opened the path to future mid-year graduating classes. We have been true to our class motto Forward Keep Moving altho sometimes the path seemed steep.

Individually we have pioneered out into many branches of learning, science, and fine arts. The accomplishments of our class will long be remembered because of the sturdy quality of work done.

We, the mid-year graduating class of 1929, will take with us deep respect for our Alma Mater, everlasting friendship, and remembrances of the happiest days of our lives.

Then as Walt Whitman has said,

"All the past we leave behind
We debouch upon a newer, mightier world, varied world
Fresh and strong the world we seize world of labor and the march Pioneers! Oh Pioneers!"

Class Prophecy

Mid-Year Class

Paul Gormican now has the president's seat;
He ran as a Democrat and didn't get beat.

As the new football coach of Stanford U,
Marlon Allan his old tactics will pursue.

Her place in the Senate, Alta Stauffer maintains
By masterly speeches in all her campaigns.

Don Calvey, our sheik so handsome and gay,
Is making a hit on the Great White Way.

Since Edward Corth has been chief of police,
All crime has steadily been on the increase.

Mr. Theisen's position now has been turned over
To William Hendricks, noted administrator.

Leslie Guell bought out Ringling and now succeeds
In making you laugh till your reason recedes.

In every magazine great or small,
Bernice Weinsheim's drawings give pleasure to all.

Francis Jones is Fondy's mayor bold;
He's a terrible grafter, so I am told.

A vitaphone actor is Warren Clark;
In all the best talkies he is the dog's bark.

Arthur Merz has a job quite new;
He teaches toe dancing at Wisconsin U.

Vivian Rottman reigns supreme
As Donald Radke's pretty queen.

The very best Olympic swimmer
Is none other than Ruth Nimmer.

Roland Holmes with his figure divine
Poses for Hart, Schaffner & Marx; how fine!

I hear that our classmate, Ralph Heiss,
Makes his living by training pet mice.

Helen Ley, whom you remember, could play
and dance,
Has played before all the Crowned Teeth in France.

Mary Trescott teaches our kids in Fond du Lac
High;
They're as dumb as their pas, Mary says with a sigh.

Billy Bush, an experienced civil engineer
Like Hoover, will run for president next year.

Lenore Mietzel is busy teaching gym
To many old grads who want to get thin.

When Clayton Auche found the fountain of youth,
His discovery was stolen by Mr. Fruth.

Remember that big boy named Gumz
He runs a hotel for high class bums.

I see by an ad that Eleanor Briggs
Gives her children nothing but Syrup of Figs.

Helen Grebe has become a nurse;
She hunts for a patient with a big purse.

Frances Watson is ever so busy
Indorsing cig'rettes that don't make one dizzy.

Margaret Abbey teaches school;
Pound it into them, that's her rule.

Walter Goebel with his dreamy eyes
Looks at the girls and sighs and sighs.

Edna Sievert? Do you remember her, folks?
She tames desperate prisoners with her funny jokes.

Dr. Art Treleven and his wife Dorothea, you know,
Are cruising the seas; they've plenty of dough.

Rockfeller's been followed by Orval Prehn
Who with Grace Marie, drives a huge limousine.

The life of Maggie and Jiggs is related
By the pen of Doris Lepine, it is stated.

Rosella Guell, what do you think?
She ran away with a rich old chink.

Her book called Ollie Olsen's Romance
Proves that Dorothy Koltz has a eye for finance.

Larence Serwe is our Chief Justice now;
Up to this time he's not settled a row.

Janice Kelly, as golf champion reigns;
She started to play with her grandfather's canes.

Marjorie Twohig who did her father's skill inherit
Cuts 'em and sews 'em in a Greenwich Village garret.

John Schnell is seen sneaking round at night;
He's a famous detective who shoots at sight.

The very best lawyer in all New York
Is Lawrence Dille who eats soup with a fork.

A writer of plays is Irene Meyer;
Her latest has set all Broadway on fire.

To Cecile Brunet you must wait for days;
She has the lead in the best of plays.

Eugene Raymer was a great airplane fan,
But they swept up his bones in an old dust pan.

Freddie Horr is a comedy star
With a cane, a dog, and a long cigar.

A radio girl is Cecile Cook;
She reads her jokes right out of a book.

Florence Kresal, the wife of a rich man,
On all his bad habits has now put a ban.

Bernice Gunderson is an artist true;
She lies in an attic and hasn't a sou!

Christian Zoellner has fought his way up;
He now holds the heavyweight championship cup.

Rose Anna Valkoske joined the pacifists;
She believes in no fighting, not even with fists.

I read in the paper not long ago
That Ethel Hughes succeeds Clara Bow.

Bessie Goebel in a mansion of logs
Is running a home for friendless dogs.

Lorraine Glasow, so light and airy,
Ran away with a missionary.

A woman of wealth is Jinny Devine;
Up in Alaska she found a gold mine.

A court reporter named Margaret Bieger
To cover a murder case is so eager.

Do you remember Dorothy Kinkel?
She made a cream to take out any wrinkle.

A movie star is Harrison Glasnapp;
He has also perfected a new type of night cap.

Senior Class History

June Class

THE class of 1929 is the very essence of Fond du Lac High School Spirit expressing this spirit deeply but without ostentation in loyalty—loyalty to the faculty, to fellow students, and to the interests of Fond du Lac High School—interests both curricular and extra-curricular.

In the line of journalism, one sees Isabelle Rothbauer, a very able editor of the Peptimist, and her successor, Helen Kresbach, equally able to fill the editorship; one also sees Lyle Rosenbaum, Editor-in-chief of the Life, working to give us our year book in order that we may have a review of the happy days our graduation will terminate. To forensics, the class of 1929 has given many a star one of whom, Margaret Winnig will not soon be forgotten; equally with her, Carl Cohn and Isabelle Rothbauer, share the honors. De Oratoribus, thru the efficient leardership of Virginia Gruenheck, has given its members splendid training in speech work. The class of 1929 has in its ranks fine examples of leadership with Charles Martini, Arthur Wagner, Carl Anthony, and Gilbert Andrew heading the Science Club. On the Mortar Board we have two able club leaders in Stella and Viola Engel. The Engel sisters and their brother, Wilbur Engel, have contributed praiseworthy work to the dramatic department. The class is well represented in the Romance language group with Virginia Gruenheck, Esther Hammang, Dolores Hau, and Henry Beau in executive capacity. Many have made a name in athletics for themselves and more so for the class. We shall never forget the quarterback, Clyde Kennedy, nor the tackle, William Foley; neither shall we forget our speedy halfback, Gordon Foshay. Girls as well as boys have made high athletic records—for instance Dorothy Eicher, Mildred Kleineschay, and countless others. One sees the veteran cheerleader. Tom Downs, and Catherine McRae upon whom rests the responsibility of leading the cheering of Fondy High.

The class of 1929 is truly grateful for the creditable years spent under the guidance of Mr. Theisen and the faculty in Fond du Lac High School where it has worked and played and found good.

Class Prophecy

IT WAS 1960. Natives of Fond du Lac were speculating. Was the city never going to be a large one? The city council was especially interested. They had been elected on an enlargement platform. They met for the third time in June—racking their brains for something through which the town might grow. Then a fire was suggested. A fire! Why, there wouldn't be any town left! Oh yes, look back at Chicago. Hadn't she been a one horse town way back? Didn't she have a fire and grow up into a great metropolis? Sure she did. A stubborn cow that was being milked had kicked over a lantern—then the blaze—then the dawn, and a great city had sprung up. The councilors trooped out of the town hall with a plan of fire-starting firmly intrenched in their minds. It had been decided no cow was needed. One could start the fire and then say "moo", or drink milk or something. It was hard for the councilmen to start that fire. People learned of the councilors' plan and protested with much waving of palms—and double palms.

To enlarge the councilors' chances for getting a fire in motion, Fire-chief Joseph Wuest (a former butcher) was shipped off to enjoy himself with a bribe donated him by the city council. Mr. Wuest locked the door of the fire-department's building for a sum listed at five and seven-eighths dollars, and it is said that for a retail price of seven and seven-eighths dollars, he tossed the key into Lake Winnebago. (Mr. Wuest did this in the dead of night with no paid witnesses.)

Several match boxes were lighted in the next days, but people rushed in and stepped on them as, indeed, all good citizens should. June sixteenth came around. Everyone was miserably tired from a three day fire vigil over his neighbor. Closed eyes were the vogue. A person with only half closed eyes was not so good a citizen as he should have been, and wide awake ones were delegated only to visiting curiosities.

There had been much punching of noses. A man innocently attempting to light a cigar would be blown out along with his match by an indignant throng of the safety-mad populace. Groups gathered on corners—bankers, farmers and what not—rooting, "Stop them fires!" Even the calm, mild priest, Father Clyde Kennedy could not quiet them although his natural good looks were excelled only by his "Amens". If Father Clyde were hurt by the angry ones, he would smile sweetly through his tears and say with just enough coyness, "Oh my! How rough you are!"

At twelve o'clock, on the noon of the sixteenth, the entire city was sleeping with no signs of a let up—or get up. It was at this opportune time that Braun Calhoun, manager of the Chain Store (he sold chains) got up from his bed. Braun had been sleeping for several days so that he had heard no rumpus about fires. At twelve-ten he lighted a match and threw it nonchalantly into a can of gasoline to be transported speedily through the mortar and laths of the North wall of his home, still gurgling at a glass of milk he had been drinking. So far, things had worked smoothly enough. It was sufficiently cowy with that milk, and certainly a big enough blaze was started to raze anything. At twelve fifteen everyone awoke—five minutes late to do anything about giving the fire a bath. It was five minutes late also to hear the great clamp of Braun's big feet and head as they hit the sidewalk. (It sounded for miles away. Navigators at sea picked it up on their radios.) Wesley Keyes arrived. He didn't have to dress. He was dressed—in the red and white of the Fond du Lac Navy. He was commander; so he allowed he'd "go down to the river and dig a canal back of the school to help fight them flames". But Wesley had trouble with the engines, and when that long willow pole fell off his flagship he was doomed—for that was his best gun. Wesley's assistant, Pat McCarthy, who had won fame by swimming across the West branch (she had been fed chocolate on the way) was disappointed. She always had headed Wesley's expeditions into the great unknowns of the creek, as a sort of publicity agent. She was just aching to swim into town. Now, how could she swim at all? The big gun had been her sole protection against alligators. Often, when she was swimming she had been stopped by some big alligator that she had to kick away.

Fred Ingram shut up his animal-cracker shop because, as he himself said that with all those cookie bears, etc., "What if the fire broke into the shop and the animals got panicky, then what?" It was at least twelve-thirty when Catherine McRae, the most gifted of the eighty odd women of the Gifted Gag Society, swished by on her swift pony. At this time Catherine was eating a few dozen Rossner cough drops and talking violently. By the way, Rossner cough drops had become a household word with hundreds, and, although the only manufacturing equipment discovered in the Rossner plant was some wood and some black pain, what of it? Even if the licorice throat aids were tar, or black painted wood, they tasted good anyway. But the fire—how had it gone! Leaping from building to building it went up evene into the office of Bert Hanson, a licensed dressmaker. Bert always had liked to sew. He would go home way back in '29 even and sew until the late hours of the night on some piece of fancy work—although no one knew he had ever lifted a needle. Bert was seeing how a new Parisian gown would look on him. It certainly looked chic as the poor hemstitcher rushed from the burning building and photographers shot him (or would liked to have shot him) for the Sunday supplement of the Huelsman Times. Mr. Huelsman, the chief editor, a stoical man, (and hard-boiled—Oh, such a cruel editor) was the first to pull himself together after the fire and mutter—just long enough and loud enough for some reporters to observe, "Milk has been spilt. We must not cry over it." For these words the former Harriet Schram (now Mrs. Rosebaum) presented him with an old medal that had been an heirloom in her family. Besides heading a family of ten or more of the cutest Rosenbaums, she had found time to devote a good part of her work as a conductor on the Rosenbaum yellow street-car line. It was she who introduced classic pictures like The Age of Innocence on the sides of the cars instead of ketchup and shoe ads. Mr. Cross, the poet, was nearly upset by the four knot an hour pace of the yellow line as he crossed the street in front of the flaming Hightower National Bank. Mr. Cross was a delicate soul. With hands folded, he was conjecturing on a poem about Hades. He was much surprised to find such realism awaiting him at the bank. There were the flames now and, yes, there were two sinners running around. Or were those only the wash lady and the janitor arguing over a nickel? Inside the bank, Mr. Hightower was conversing about business with Doctor Engel when a flaming brand from the roof crashed into the safety deposit vault. "And what," he cried, "have I did now to deserve this?" (Some say that the knack of handling money matters was born in Mr. Hightower but others doubted this. It is said that one time when Leslie was a bank teller, he complained of being hungry. He went to the vault and emerged, wiping a green stain from his mouth. Later a twenty dollar bill was found missing. Of course, one can merely speculate on such matters.)

Dr. Engel had been miserably confiding some of his blues. He bemoaned the fact that in spite of his attention, two of his patients had survived his evilest-smelling "remedies" for stomach ache. Dr. Engel's motto had always been "Two out of three are returned to dust through my ready concoctions." Orville Freiberg, the undertaker, was also blue. He was thinking of two dirt filled spaces six by three. It certainly was sad. Wilbur was not thinking of money matters at this time, but was engaged in watching Mr. Downs, the actor, who was acting before the flaming Gruenheck Birdshop. It was the first time he had ever had a chance to recite The Boy Stood on The Burning Deck with such inspiration.

After the former Miss Dolores Hau (the one that kept the popcorn shop) had gone, the air cooled off, leaving the hot ashes of the city of Fond du Lac to stand where they would (or at least where there had been wood). Miss Hau really intended to remain airing the flames for some time (it was such sport!) but that Mr. Stoecker hadn't learned to get his own dinner. By the way, Al was a famous steeplejack, and often, just to help Dolores, he would eat buttered popcorn while he stood on his head eighty stories above the nearest sidewalk. The fire had taken all day and all night to destroy the town. The people thought it was a shame that the council made them wait round till the last timber was burned, saying, "they would never get a chance ever again to see their homes go up in smoke", and several in the crowd talk back and muttered. All of the crowd, including Mr. Foley, the visiting insurance man, trooped off to encamp just off Ninth Street beside the river in as sober an attitude as they could assume after all the joyous frolicking of the day among their burning homes and dying children. It was on June eighteenth that commotion again reigned to put out the last of the wits (and sparks) of Fond du Lac; for it was Tarzan Hughes, the distinguished ape killer and former foreign diplomat to Turkey who had said to the multitude by the stream, "Say, folks, they's been a fire burnin' our town." The crowd, having nothing better to do, charged the city wit with a loud sarcastic No! and much gnashing of teeth. No one has been able to put the puzzle together. Mr. Rosenbaum found the neck and remarked he, "knew it", for with his size family, that's all he ever got anyway when they had chicken or something. Knowing that Mr. Hughes was of a widely divided mind, and otherwise divided, Alvin Hartman and Joe Jentz, president and vice-president respectively of the Fond du Lac floral society, planted clover on the entire Hughes Acre so that the place would be marked in a thousand and one beautiful ways. (Alvin and Joe always enjoyed the sweet things of life anyway.)

But, except for the clover field, Fond du Lac was a dust, smoke laden waste. People waited patiently for a springing up of a great busy city but nothing happened (although, to be sure, the traffic problem was greatly lessened). Esther Hammang was called in from Route 19. She was leading a moo cow she had brought in from her farm. The people followed her around town in a sort of solemn graduation day exercise with heads bowed. This ended the thing, and as Esther led the fire-producer away the people nodded in acclamation. For what was the cause of this disaster but a plot based on a stubborn cow, or milk or something? What could be more appropriate than the slow ploddings of a moo cow? Mo-o-o-o-o!

Junior Class History

WORDS of praise mean nothing unless they are grounded on true value, but when they are based on such excellent facts as can be found in the history of this class, words of approbation will do more for a person or institution than is apparent.

Therefore, to say these few words in praise of the junior class is all too inadequate. This class has undoubtedly shed its influence upon the student body by contributing to it some of the greatest leaders, the cleverest minds, and the most distinctive personalities that Fond du Lac Senior High School boasts.

Especially in Fondy High's favorite sport has the junior class distinguished itself, having contributed to our Fox River Valley team such players as Captain Mullen, Charles Tolzman, Leonard Scheibach, and Walter Konz. The class is equally well represented in forensics for Marie Bury, Alice Senk, Edward Richter, Verna Sievert, and Garrison Pino have all received their F's. In scholarship, artistic work on Life, and in literary work on both the Peptimist and the Life, their are artists who have done a great deal in advertising events of importance to the school. Moreover, some of the year's most brilliant and successful events have rested in the hands of our juniors.

Every junior event has been one bound up in many individual interests; consequently, these affairs have all reached the pinnacle of success.

The class chose wisely in selecting officers so representative of its group. As a class its success is due largely to the efforts of these officers; and to the accomplishments and able direction of its faculty advisors, Miss Katherine O'Brien, chairman, Miss L. Carmichael, and Miss R. Smith, to whom the junior class expresses its deep appreciation. That their work was esteemed will be shown when in the years to come members of the class will recall their junior days as among the happiest days of their school lives.

Well may we say with the poet:

"To those who know thee not, no Words can paint,
And those who knew thee, know these words are faint."

Sensibility.

History of Class of '31

OUR class ship is launched, and no waves of flunking, inactivity, or indifference shall sink it. It shall sail across the oceans of 1930 and '31 and arrive in port triumphant.

The members of our class have represented themselves brilliantly in the many activities of the school with the aid of our able faculty advisors: Miss O'Neil, Miss Nash, Miss Siewert, and Mr. Pawlicki. The Life and Peptimist staffs could not do without us. Many spaces are filled in the Honor Roll with the names of Sophomore students. We are doing our part in athletics by having ten pupils on the basketball squad; we are also represented in other athletic organizations. We are performing our share in bringing a little music and song into the school by playing in the band and singing in the Glee Club; a little social life by having a successful class party.

"Achievements show your worth". With such achievements as we have accomplished to launch our boat, with Robert McLain as captain, Mary Esther Kremer as second mate, Frank Gordon as wireless operator, David Hoyt as financier, our ship should be worthy to brave any storm.

Sail on, nor fear to breast the sea.
Our hearts, our hopes are all with thee,
Our hearts, our hopes, our prayers, our tears
Our faith triumphant o'er our fears,
Are all with thee, are all with thee.

Dramatics

EARLY in October, 1928 "Finders Keeper", a one act play by George Kelly, was given in assembly.

The parts were taken by:

Jean Hope - - - - - - - - - Mrs. Aldrid
Paul Gormican - - - - - - - Eugene Aldrid
Virginia Gruenheck - Mrs. Hampton, a neighbor

The action of the play takes place in the living room of Eugene Aldrid's apartment, which is located in an outlying suburb of the city of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania The time is about five o'clock of a late September afternoon. All three who participated in the play carried their parts in a capable and interesting manner.

Another play, "A Christmas Chime", was ready to be presented just before Christmas vacation. Because of a flu epidemic in the city, health officials forbade public gatherings; so this play was postponed for another year. Marguerite Wolterding, Patricia McCarthy, Dale Stenz, and Fred Horr worked on this diligently and deserved credit even though the privilege of presenting it was denied them.

"Red Carnations", a simple sketch, was given for a spring assembly. The scene was a secluded corner in a city park; time: an afternoon, the present. The characters were:

A Man - - - - - - - - - - Traver Hutchins
A Boy - - - - - - - - - - Edward Mullen
A Girl - - - - - - - Dorothy Scherzinger

"Katinka", a dancing unmber, was also given. William Kraemer was the father, Margaret King, the mother, and Ruth Smith, Katinka.

These three one-act plays together with the Senior play "The Gypsy Trail", and the all school attempt, "Under Twenty", were the total dramatic efforts of 1928 and 1929.

Horr, Bush, Engel, Hau, Ley, Engel, Eicher, Brunet, Raymer

Gypsy Trail

THE senior class play, "The Gypsy Trail", was presented January 15, under the direction of Miss Frances D. Finley.

Interest was kept at a high point throughout the entertainment, and the acting was on a par with the best high school productions presented in the Fox River Valley during the last few years, critics who saw the play agreed.

The plot concerned a young girl who could no tdecide between her well-established conventional lover and her romantic admirer. With the aid of her family, especially her little brother, and the conventional lover's grandmother, she finally decided the romantic swain to be her ideal.

Music between acts was furnished by the High School Orchestra, directed by Mr. Joseph Schmitz.

The cast included the following:

Michael Rudder - - - - - - - - - - - - Wilbur Engel
Edward Andrews - - - - - - - - - - - Eugene Raymer
Frank Raymond - - - - - - - - - - - - - William Bush

Under Twenty

THE All School Play, "Under Twenty", was given May 14, 1929, at the Roosevelt Auditorium, under the direction of Miss Frances Finley.

The heroine of the play, Peeks Farnum, played by Elaine Wilson, is a most lovable personality, a charming miss of seventeen, who takes it upon herself to save the family fortunes by marrying off her sister to a handsome man from the West—Don Brown, played by Traver Hutchins. She is a movie fan and regulates all her deeds by asking herself, "What would Mary Pickford do now?" She manages to keep the entire family in exciting turmoil for almost two hours, only to discover in the end that she, herself, is really desperately in love with the Westerner. How she achieves her aims and makes everybody happy is the basis of a most interesting, well developed play.

The parts were portrayed as follows:

Ida Farnum - - - - - - - - - - - Hope Gardner
Grace Farnum - - - - - - - - - Margaret Stratton
Peeks Farnum - - - - - - - - - - Elaine Wilson
Rannie - - - - - - - - - - - - Margaret Treleven

Debating

THE debate teams this year engaged in the most comphrehensive schedule in years. Fond du Lac teams met teams from each of the eight schools in the Fox River Valley League. In addition to this, several exhibition debates were presented before service clubs in the city. At the beginning of the season there were but two debaters from last year's squad. Fourteen others saw experience this year.

There were several innovations this year. Two questions were debated, decisions by judges were abolished, each school met every other school in the Valley League, and and two people instead of the usual three made a team. These features removed much of the formality of debate, shortened the time, and gave more people an opportunity to appear. The work was done under the direction of Mr. Filbey.

The schedule for the first question, Resolved, That the primary system of nominating candidates for United States Senators, Representatives in Congress and State office be abolished, was as follows:

December 12, at Fond du Lac
Fond du Lac, Negative vs. Sheboygan, Affirmative
Walter Hass — Karl Anthony

December 14, at Oshkosh
Fond du Lac, Affirmative vs. Oshkosh, Negative
Norman Justl — Carl Cohn

January 11, at Fond du Lac
Fond du Lac, Affirmative vs. East Green Bay, Negative
Norman Justl — Alta Stauffer

January 14, at Oconto
Fond du Lac, Negative vs. Oconto, Affirmative
Margaret Winnig — Isabelle Rothbauer

The schedule for the second question, Resolved, That municipal public ownership and operation of electric light and power utilities be adopted in Wisconsin, was as follows:

February 26, at Fond du Lac
Fond du Lac, Negative vs. Appleton, Affirmative
Edward Richter — Garrison Pino

February 27, at West Green Bay
Fond du Lac, Affirmative vs. West Green Bay, Negative
Marie Bury — Georgena Deer

March 14, at Fond du Lac
Fond du Lac, Affirmative vs. Marinette, Negative
Gilbert Andrew — Frank Grassy

March 15, at Manitowoc

Cheer Leaders

IN the season of 1929 four of the most popular students have distinguished themselves in cheerleading: Paul Gormican, Catherine McRae, Thomas Downs, Tiliman Bruett. They were always on the job, and altho it sometimes seemed as tho the spark of enthusiasm would die, these four always supplied the draft to the flame of real spirit necessary for the success of a team either in the field or on the floor. If the players were to trip out onto the floor before a game and not see those bits of life and action in red and white—our cheerleaders—, they would lose half the pep and vigor they had stored up ready for the game.

The school, students and faculty, extend its sincere appreciation to those who have contributed so generously to make the Spirit of Fond du Lac High School live for everyone.

U — Rah — Rah — Fond du Lac

U — Rah — Rah — Fond du Lac
Yea — Team !
Fight ! Fight ! Fight !

Wer're for Fond du Lac, We're for Fond du Lac,
Finest city in the whole wide state;
We have pep, and we have snap,
We know how to put her on the map.
Rah ! Rah ! Fond du Lac ! Rah ! Rah ! Fond du Lac !
Best old town in the whole wide state

EDWARD D. FRUTH
Director of Athletics
Basketball Coach

EDWARD D. FRUTH is the busy mentor of Fond du Lac's athletics and our popular basketball coach. During the football season he manages the first team and coaches the All Americans. The innovation of intramural athletics last spring was the fulfilment of his idea of athletics for all. Through his knowledge of basketball and his coaching ability he has made Fondy's team feared by all opponents.

Mr. Fruth has met with great success in basketball. Three state championships have been won by his teams; and in district tournaments Fondy has placed first four times, placed second once, been accorded third place twice and fourth place once. Besides these district honors, Mr. Fruth's teams have won one first place and one second place in Ripon invitation tournaments. For the past three seasons Fondy has not entered a tournament due to conference rules. The title has been decided on a percentage basis for the season and our teams have won the championship of the Fox River Valley two years in succession.

Our coach calls forth a spirit of fight and cooperation from his teams. He is the kind of man for whom the fellows play ball until the final whistle. He has developed fighting players whose teamwork is extraordinary. Fruth knows basketball thoroughly and has put Fond du Lac on the map. He is known and honored throughout the state of Wisconsin for his coaching technique.

Fond du Lac on the Gridiron

FOUR victories, one tie game, and but two losses is the splendid record established by our '28 football team. The team was built around a nucleus of five lettermen: Captain Allen, tackle; Schmidt, halfback; Foshay, halfback; Foley, tackle; Kennedy, quarterback.

Fond du Lac opened the season by winning over Sheboygan 19 to 6. Kennedy, recognized a weakness in the opponents' lineup during the first period, and how he used this knowledge! Then Schmidt scored from the five yard line, and later Treleven paved the way for a second marker. A good game!

Next Appleton and Fondy played a scoreless game. Hansen and Sommerfeld were outstanding players; Scheiback intercepted a pass at a critical moment when fortune favored Appleton. A feature of the game was the tackling by Hightower, the find of of the season, who repeatedly threw the opponents for big losses.

Then Fondy met defeat at the hands of Green Bay East on a field made heavy with rain. Calhoun, Schmidt, Kennedy, and Farmer in the backfield, deserve credit for the showing they made against the much heavier Green Bay line.

Rallying, the Bakermen completely outclassed Marinette, piling up a score of 25 to Marinette's 0. Calhoun's sure tackling and clever blocking blocking and the manner in which Foley hurried the Marinette passers allowed Fondy to win in a walk-away.

On October 27 Manitowoc was defeated 13 to 6. Schmidt opened the scoring, carrying the ball straight down the field for the first six points. Farmer and Kennedy played good football. The rival line was torn to shreds when the Bakermen showed Manitowoc how we play to win.

E. F. BAKER,
Coach

Dear Orma - Much luck and success to you in future life

The annual battle with Oshkosh was a real game, both teams playing to win. Fondy's straight line smashing and passing was good work. Farmer had the honor of carrying the pigskin for the first touchdown. Kennedy's sensational run to Oshkosh's sixteen-yard line was a high spot in the second half but the final score stood 18 to 13 in Oshkosh's favor. Allen played his usual good defensive game. Foshay kept Oshkosh on the alert by his end runs and caught several passes for neat gains.

The '28 season closed with one more victory for Fondy. Green Bay West lost 7 to 0. The field was soaked and a cold, penetrating rain drenched the players and the handful of loyel fans. During the entire game Treleven passed the slippery ball with skill, and in the last quarter, Kennedy passed the ball over the end line to Hansen for a touchdown and repeated this play for the extra point.

"A team is no stronger than its reserves," says Coach Baker. A large part of the success of the team was due to the faithfulness and ability of the reserves. Mullen, Wolterding, and Snow, displaying real ability, played at end during several games and won their letters. Horr, Guell, and Clark, reserve linemen, and Tolzman, Dana, Humleker, Bush, and Downs, all backfield men, earned their letters.

Zoellner, Dille, Clintsman, and many others did not play in any game, nevertheless they contributed their share toward the development of the squad.

The squad gave generously of time and effort in the hard work required to build a winning team. Twenty-three were awarded letters. During the entire season the clean playing and good sportsmanship of Baker's eleven drew favorable comment throughout the Fox River Valley.

MARLON ALLEN
Retiring Captain

Captain Marlon Allen, tackle, has piloted Fondy's eleven through a successful 1928 season. His clear judgment and cool reaction to every situation won the admiration of his teammates. He received and deserved the best efforts of every man on his team.

Principles of fair play are inherent to Allen, and he and his team were known throughout the conference for good sportsmanship.

Allen, who received honorable mention during the entire season, was chosen on the mythical "All Conference Eleven"

LEONARD SCHEIBACH

Captain Elect

The Captain Elect, Leonard Scheibach, played end on the 1928 team. He is an outstanding player, mentioned by the Valley sport writers for football ability and good sportsmanship. He won his place on the "1928 All Conference Eleven". Scheibach has had several years football experience, having learned the game at Junior High School before playing one year on the All Americans, and one year on the Senior High team. This experience and his recognized ability augur well for another successful football season in 1929.

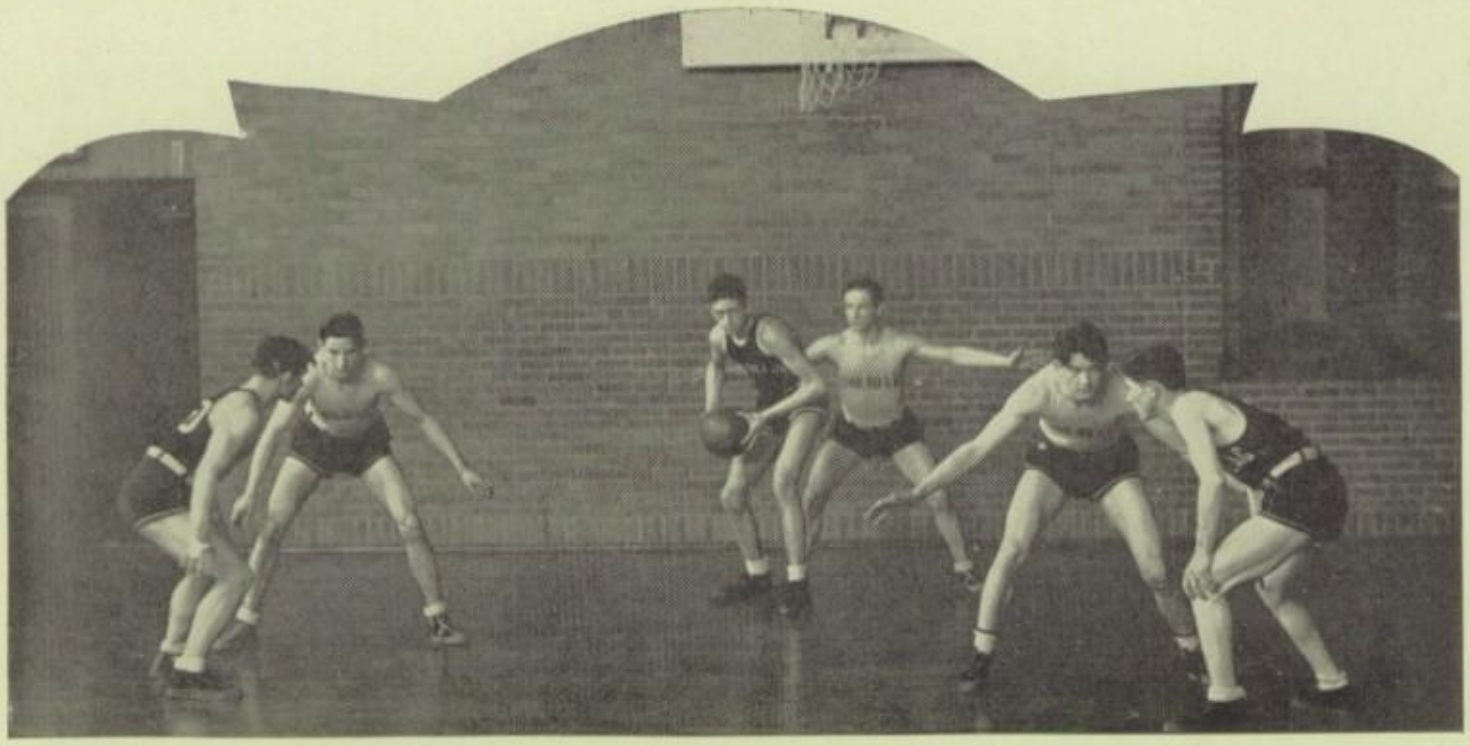
Our Basketball Heroes

CAPTAIN Mullen of our 1929 basketball team was a member of the mythical all conference first team. He was one of the best defensive guards ever produced by Fondy High School. His recovery of rebound shots was perfect. In all conference games his assignment was to guard the opponents scoring ace and so well did he handle his part that only six field baskets were obtained by all his opponents in the ten conference games. A remarkable performance was the record of holding scoreless in two games one of the leading scorers on the Conference Championship team.

Kennedy was one of the smallest players in the conference, yet fifth from the top in scoring honors. He averaged 6.6 points in ten conference games. This was a notable feat as he was guarded closely in all games. He was a "marked man", as it is termed in basketball when a player has gained reputation as a good scorer. In the nerve wrecking Appleton game, Kennedy scored over half the points scored by his team, while closely guarded. The never-to-be-forgotten ending of the Oshkosh-Fondy game will go down in school history as the game that the "Red-Headed Midget" of Fondy pulled out of the fire with a free throw at the end of a tie game.. Kennedy's pivot work and dash to the basket exploits stood out as a prominent play in all games. "Red" also was selected as a member of the mythical all conference first team.

Tolzman has the honor of being captain of the 1930 basketball team. This speed demon played his first year of Conference basketball and became one of the leading scorers of his team. Chuck's chassis is built low to the ground and he had to put on speed to overcome his opponent's size. When all six cylinders were working he took the curves on high speed and left all his opponents in the rear. All Tolzman needed was a spark to ignite the gas and he would go on a scoring rampage. His score card tells of a number of games in which he scored four or five baskets. Chuck is a cool, heady player whom we are relying on for next year.



C. Tolzman, B. Calhoun, E. Mullen, V. Snow, W. Konz, C. Kennedy

Calhoun has played his first year of conference basketball. He was the running mate to Captain Mullen and the low scores that their opponents turned in indicate that the motto held "Thou shall not shoot". Cal, although not a tall man, had the ability to recover many tie balls. He always made it a point to have his opponents recognize that he was in the game, so, to vary the monotonous duty of guarding, he would take a rapid trip up the floor into enemy territory, score a basket and return to his guard duties. He had the true Fondy "Never Die" spirit and always carried it through the entire game, always urging his team mates to carry on.

Snow is another man in his first year of conference basketball. Vernie proved to the student body that they could rely on him to come through when necessary. He tied up the Oshkosh game with a throw and kept Fondy in the running. Flakey's motto was "I'll get that man, and how——." Fondy's system of defense needed a man of Snow's ability and nerve. His perfect guarding kept his man worried and few baskets were scored by his opponent.

As we have often heard Wallie Konz say, "Youse guys don't know the half of it." This statement carries weight. Wallie was always ready to fill any position and that requires a man of great versatility. This season was the first of conference basketball for Wallie. He will be back next year and we expect to see him up at the top with the stars.

The rest of the squad deserves incalculable praise because they took the hard bumps, were faithful in practice, and no doubt having shown that they are ready to work hard as they did, they too will be regulars in a short time. Those who desrve recognition are: Humlecker, Foshay, Wolterding, B. Hansen, Clintsman, Treleven, Hutchins, Dana, Bruett, Scheibach, F. Gordon, R. Gordon, Dunn, Peeke, Prillaman, Boyle, Kintzler, Wagner, Dille, and Koll.

EDWARD MULLEN

Retiring Captain

Captain Edward Mullen, who is acknowledged a popular student and a good athlete, has led his team through a successful 1928-1929 season. Ed is the best defensive player ever to represent Fondy on the basketball floor.

Mullen has received letters in both football and basketball, and has one more semester to play for Fond du Lac.

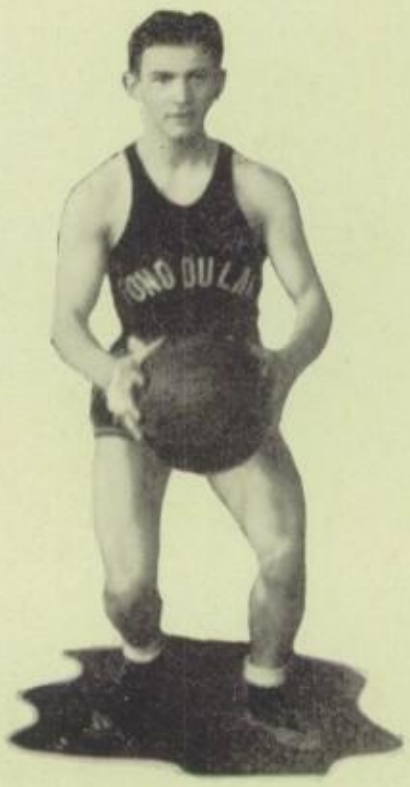
CHARLES TOLZMAN

Captain Elect

Charles Tolzman, prominent in scholastic and athletic attainments, a member of the football and basketball teams of 1928, will pilot the 1929-1930 basketball team.

Captain Tolzman, who is a junior, has received his first football and basketball letters and has another year to play

"Chuck" has shown himself to be a fast and clever player, and will give his best, leading his team through the coming season.



Standing: Schmit, Waters, V. Sievert, Kaiser, A. Cook, Wilson, Meixensperger, Deer.
Seated: Bury, Voell, Hope, Severin, Scherzinger, A. Salchert.

Basketball Tournament

FOR the past seven years the basketball championship has been won by the seniors. This year, thru the aid of Miss Ranslem, coach, and thru a little of their own ability, the sophomores acquired first place. In the first game the class of '31 beat the class of '32 with a score of 7 to 4. The seniors beat the juniors with a score of 6 to 4. To determine the championship, a game was played between the class of '29 and the class of '31. The teams were equally matched, and each player did her best. At the half the score was 8 to 8. During the third quarter the seniors got a free throw, making the score 9 to 8 in their favor. It looked bad for the sophomores, but they were not discouraged. In the last quarter the sophomores sunk a field goal and made a free throw. The final score was 9 to 11 in favor of the sophomores.

The class teams are picked and coached by Miss Ranslem. The players are determined by their ability and by their sportsmanship.

ELMER F. BAKER
Football Coach

ELMER F. BAKER has concluded his fourth year of able and enthusiastic effort as Fond du Lac's football coach.

Mr. Baker came to Fond du Lac from Dubuque College, Iowa, where he was an outstanding player on several championship teams. During his first two years at Fond du Lac he assisted with athletics. In 1924 he became Football Coach for Fondy's eleven and took over the duties of managing the basketball team. "Bake" spared no effort to build a real team and was awarded by second place in the conference, having lost but one game the entire season. The year following again brought glory when Fondy won all encounters except two in which injuries prevented several letter men from playing. This season has repeated these successes.

Baker knows football and recognizes the importance of strategy as well as the importance of beef and brawn; he drills his teams to think. Mr. Baker's reputation as a football coach is established and his teams are recognized as formidable opponents.

To the Spirit of Fondy High

WHEN the Fondy-spirit comes sneaking 'round;
It's no time for those in study halls to be sleeping sound.
He dashes in at a terrible pace;
(Then, register a grin on each face.)
This right welcome fanthon comes nigh every day,
And chases thoughts of old Chemistry away.
Gum chewers bring forth that long wanted stick,
And playful boys think up a very new trick.
Library goers cease their fond laboring,
To punch the back of the victim, neighboring.
Gab fests begin, and all goes fine,
Each girl seems to have quite a different line.
And then in walks someone who startles us pink,
It's no one who'll bite us,
But whom do you think?
Miss Waters or Thelander, neither, my dear,
It's Mr. Theisen, our champion of all that is splendid,
Whom our good spirit shall ever revere.

A Day with John Fondy Hi

8:20 John gets up after being called three times by his ever patient mother.

8:30 After diving into his clothes he grabs his orange college crusher and a piece of toast and runs for school.

8:45 After running the full length of the hall he slips into rollroom just as the tardy bell sounds.

8:47 Limbers up two sticks of gum and passes to study hall to begin day's work. He shouts greetings as he passes his friends, occasionally giving them a love punch. Frequently he trips his enemies.

9:40 Study is over. Since there is nothing left to do, he slams his book shut and decides to make some clever noise to get the spirit started.

9:45 He goes to history class. Since the teacher is in the hall, he decides to see what is interesting on her desk. He looks through her class book and shouts to each one his low grades. When the teacher comes in, he flies to his seat looking as angelic as possible.

10:45 He goes to English class where there is to be a test. He takes the teacher's pencil off her desk and then shouts to everyone for a piece of paper.

11:45 Dismissal bell rings. He pushes out of the room, dashes down to his locker and tries to be the first in the cafeteria line. He is a little late so pushes and tries to squeeze ahead of his place. He finally gets his food and eats with his gang.

12:15 After gobbling his meal as fast as possible he goes to 230 where all the latest pieces are being played by the school musicians, Albert and Katy. He tries dancing with his secret love but Miss Waters soon puts a stop to that.

12:50 He goes to his rollroom where he keeps his teacher busy watching so that the room will not be totally wrecked.

1:03 He runs for the library. Here he has a fine time reading all his favorite magazines. He soon tires of that so gets the paper. When he finishes he gossips with the librarian and then puts to work his ideas to make him appear clever and funny. The librarian rejoices when the period ends.

2:03 French comes next. He is bored here for the teacher keeps talking in a language unknown so he decides to sleep.

3:03 This is the most loved class, auto mechanics. What fun it is to be free! One can do just as one pleases.

4:00 School is over. He rushes out of the door. One would think he had some place to go but it is only downtown to stand on the street.

6:00 After a hurried dinner he dashes off to the movies, regardless of the kind of show.

9:30 Then for a coca cola. He is about to go home when he sees his favorite crush, so immediately a party is organized. They start out to parts unknown in that wrecked car.

4:30 John's mother thinks she hears the milk man but it is only John ending up his usual day with a bang.

4:31 John sleeps on for another big day.

Convincing Messages of a Few of Fondy's Most Prominent

Dear Grocer Guell:

The coffee you sent from the A & P was much too coarse. If you were my husband I would consider it sufficient grounds for divorce.

I am hunting a place to live out here in Florida where the real estate agents really thrive. So far there are plenty of sharps — no flats.

Art Treleven

Dear C. Klein:

Father informed me yesterday that a fresh barrel of codfish had just arrived. So, I will no longer need you. You have been swimming around me long enough and although a very poor fish — you deserve to be canned.

Florence Leonard

Dear Miss Eicher:

Though formerly, as you know, I have said many, many times you were the apple of mine eye, I find now you are too green. You quite stem my love-tide.

Peter Gormican

Dear Miss Gruenheck:

I am overcome by your picture. I had never looked at you so closely before. May God bless you — and keep you. Amen.

A Soph's Thoughts on Entering High School
Second Semester

I wonder where room 230 is. I'm supposed to meet Tom around here. There goes Frank. Wonder if I got my fountain pen. I don't suppose we'll start right in with work. There is Tom. "Hey, Tom, room 230 is down here. I wonder if you will be in any of my classes. Don't you hope we get a good roll room teacher?" Guess I'll sit near the front. Let's see, think I will sit near Fred. No, there's Ted, I'll sit near him. There's the principal. Gee, I wonder if we get out a little earlier. One thing, this school is better than Roosevelt. My first class in English. Where is room 237? I bet I ran down the hall three times to find it. Oh there's Frank, guess I'll ask him. This is terrible. I have to go from the third to the first and back to the third. Just my luck, my locker on the second. Half hour classes. We'll get out early this aft. I'll go ice skiing.

Starting Over

Gee! If I was starting my Junior year over bullieve me I'd work mighty hard. I would work so hard that the teachers would LIKE to have me in their classes. I'd get 95's and 96's that would make even Pa and Ma happy.

I wouldn't whisper, throw erasers, nails, or pencils stubs, and I would be an example of a perfect all-around student.

If my marks would begin to get lower, I would work very much harder and bring flowers, gum, and candy to my teachers every day. Maybe I wouldn't get good marks then? If my marks would still be below 95, why then I would stay home every night and do extra-credit work so as to get respectable marks.

Gosh! If I only had another chance, I would work hard enough to be the "beloved" and model pupil of all teachers.

Senior Spirit

The "dear hunting" season was opened with a bang at the Senior Class Mixer. All the cave men were trying to outrun some "dear". They succeeded, but each won a favor only to present it to the fond lady who proved to be his choice. One could see how absolutely dignified the fond Seniors always are, had they witnessed this free for all. Mr. Fruth would have found worth while material for a track team. They certainly worked off plenty of smoke of "Flaming Youth!" Occasionally, one of the track aspirants would faw down 'n go boom, much to his or her disgust.

Tho candy was presented to each child, Santa did not appear on the scene.

Oh! yes, natuarlly, a good time was had by all until - - - - - - - the cars wouldn't start. They were simply frozen stiff, as each girl was by the time she again arrived safely under her mother's protective wing.

Dear Annie Laurie:

My girl has left me because my nose has been slightly misplaced. I acquired it in her defense — please advise me in my difficulties.

Bruce

Bruce, my boy:

You must make her see that you were right. If she doesn't, she isn't really very much in love with you, anyway. I am certain that she will, however.

Annie Laurie

Dearest Annie:

Since Pinky has left me, I am so lonely. What can I do to win him back?

Lonely Ruth

Ruth dear:

Are you certain that he is worth it? Often, you know, defenseless little girls are deceived. You had better forget him.

Annie Laurie

My dear Annie Laurie:

My boy friend doesn't seem to be interested in me any more. I did so like his name, and I wanted it some day. Don't you think Murphy is a lovely name for which to work?

Anna

Dear Anna:

It is too bad that your friend does not appreciate your worth. Have you done something to offend him? Try to amend, if so.

Annie Laurie

Dear Annie:

I am a wonderful boy. I give my girls all kinds of entertainment. I can dance, and I can sing; but some of the girls, the one I want particularly, I cannot get. How shall I go about it?

I am so lonely, I want this one.

Waiting, Red Keenan

Red:

Perhaps if you did not think you could do all your real accomplishments so well, she would. Try to be very kind and acquire a more inferior complex—if possible.

Annie

Miss Laurie:

My lady friend ignores my attentions. I cannot stand it any longer. I am not very slow — and still she simply cannot see me. What shall I do?

Dismal Art

Art:

Do not take it so hard ,my child — she evidently wants to make you jealous. Beware of women, Art.

Annie

Dear Miss Annie Laurie:

I am a very nice looking fellow; and I dress very well, but I cannot get the school girls to look at me tho some teachers love me. What do you suppose is the trouble?

Wandering Wilber

Poor Boy:

Go to a child for the answer, Wilbur. You can find no better way.

Annie

Dear Irma:

I suppose you recall how often I forgot your name when I was passing out papers in our wonderful history class. Rest assured that I won't forget your name now, but I prefer to call you Blondy. Good Luck, Bill.

Free Textbooks

Three cheers! Yip! Yip! Yip! Yay-y-y! Our textbooks are absolutely free—except if we get them dirty. The teachers always remind us with a kind hint (what kind?) that if we get our books soiled we will be charged a fine! That would suit some of the students to the letter, but not Us! No, sir, not us! We want to study and get ahead in this (school) world, but, how can we? We'll have to wash our hands every time we wish to use our books. (And we Can't do that.) Well that sure leaves us in "Hot Water", because if we leave our books parked in our locker we will get low marks, which papa and mamma wouldn't like, and also we might spill a bottle of ink on our books if we keep them in our locker. (And oh! how ink spots run up the cost of school!) Hence, what do we do? Why, we study just enough to get through school and yet not run up too big a fine, and of course, we must take the consequences at home. At the end of the year, we dig in our pockets (or papa's) and pay the fines, then we prepare for another season of clean hands, little study, and, as expected "BIG FINES."

Dear Irma:

I visit Biology now History we are together, I hope we will see more of each other. I hope you have lots of fun this summer. Your classmate

When a Fellow Needs a Friend

The day after skipping school.

When you're a Senior with fifteen credits.

When Betty investigates your absence.

When your excuse written by yourself is unable to quell Mr. Theisen's suspicions.

When the first spring days come and you're inside looking out.

When you're a 'Soph' entering High.

When certain hired members call up mamma for a "friendly and confidential talk".

When she starts going with another fellow.

When Miss Minton sees you going ahead of the line in the Cafeteria.

How Cookery Terms Fit Our People

Mr. ~~Ziegert~~ boils with rage.
Sometimes Bill Foley acts half baked.
Dorothea Wright is burning with love.
Bruce Miller has made a goose of himself.
Fred Ingram has cooked his goose with some teachers.
The teachers make hash of the pupils.
Red Kennedy often gets into hot water.
We toast Fondy High.
How we like to roast the teachers
Mrs. Ryder is as cool as a cucumber.
Mr. Olson is as hot as a quail.
Marian Bishop is a dumpling
Esther Hammang is a duck.
Jerry Cross is crusty.
Thurman McCormick is a sausage.
Mr. Cochrane is a crab in study hall.
Teachers are clams before tests.
Harry Cailouette is always in a pickle.
Detention is where pupils who get into stews are punished.
If Toby Marshall could only be sheepish (?).
Ruth Smith is a lamb.

IN

LIFE

Farewell to School Spirit

In June, they say, school spirit is coming to a close,
But that's the time when everyone is right upon his toes.
There's graduation, banquets, and quite informal teas;
And in the Life one finds the maps of you and me.
But you'll also find the Senior, feelin' rather low,
As he wanders thru the building, walking slow.
His spirit is fast declining after many years of work
And how he's wishing he could stay and ne'r again his lessons shirk.
But he's not so gay as he might be, because he's going to leave,
And he tells the underclassmen, that for him they shouldn't grieve.
He hopes they'll miss him dearly, and they'll find no one so good;
And he'd even have them think he was perfect, if he could.
The old school spirit weeps and is sad and discontented,
For she realizes the Seniors — away from here are sent.
And who could do without them? — The nucleus of school spirit and of all.
She wonders what this school will be, when they're not here next fall.
Don't let the poor old spirit die; do try to make her gay;
And then next year when we come back, we'll know she's here to stay.
We've loved her dearly, and we'd hate to see her wane
And if you're careful she will grow and school life and fun will gain.
So cheer up, the old school spirit, and may she ever be strong
And may our memories and love of school linger with us long.

LATIN

All the people dead who wrote it,
All the people dead who spoke it,
All the people die who learn it,
Blessed death, they surely earn it.

Miss Goebel in German class: LeRoy S., recite the poem you have learned.

LeRoy S.: (Somewhat embarrassed turns his face toward the window.) Du bist wie eine Blume, So hold und schon und rein. (Meaning— "You are like a flower, beautiful, pure and good.")

Miss Goebel interrupting: Look at me when you recite.

LeRoy blushed; we wonder why.

Dear Irma - Enjoyed you as a roll room mate and will enjoy it if you're my classmate next year. Remember our roll room and the good old time.

SEPTEMBER means a rush to school —
The girls hate tennis, and the fellows hate pool.
We know quite well that Hanson lad —
Just waits for September, he's so glad.
And Billy Kraemer walks for miles —
To come back to his classmates, and their smiles.
We all look forward to the day
Which sees vacation on its way.
The teachers too are glad to be Back in the harness—near you 'n me.
They love us so, the dear, dear things —
They don't realize the harm they really bring.

Dear Irma
much luck
& success.
Roby Dana

OCTOBER gives big fellows a chance
To learn the well-known football dance.
Thurman McCormick surely makes 'em fall —
And Donald Radtke always fumbles the ball.
Lindy Parsons tries to hold the back line
And Rosenbaum makes good every time.
No wonder Bake does feel so good
They're one good team — and boy they should —
Just carry that ball thru thick or thin —
And keep right on — with a broken chin —
There's one more star, and that's Fred Barrett
He's light on his feet — what's to be done — he'll dare it?

Dear Irma
I'm so glad
I should know you
Irma -
I lived near you than I do now but I'm awfully glad we're friends -
I hope forever
Best wishes

NOVEMBER chills find crowds at school
And all are abiding the golden rule.
They're waiting to get scraps to eat —
They care not whether it's rice or puffed wheat
The cafeteria's jammed right full —
And someone trying to push or pull.
Traver Hutchin's just the type who would —
Save his girl a place in line, if he could.
And Leroy Sommerfeldt's the same
He doesn't know how to play square in a game.
The teachers are always last in the line —
It's really no wonder, they have so much time.

DECEMBER finds the wee one's waiting
Or at the parties — nicely mating.
Gert Scherzinger thinks that Santa'll come —
He may have things for some folks, but she's not one.
George Zangl looks round the group —
And not for one would he care to stoop.
Of course, there's Vi Simon who looks pretty good —
Jerry Cross would take her, if he but could?
The dancers never once sit down —
While Alvin Hartman's playing the clown.
Then comes the good food prepared by those clever
And then all agree it's the best party ever.

JANUARY is the time
When our big men get Fruth's hi-sign
They're boys like Andrew and like Beau
Who always have made quite a show.
In basketball they've won their fame
They make young Tolzman look quite tame.
Ross Petrie is another shark
With him athletics is a great lark
Aubrey Kaeding is quite the man
In basketball he's s[illegible] on hand
He's one sure-sh[illegible]e can feel content;
That off to Oshk[illegible] he'll be sent.

Dear Irma
Enjoyed class
being in room
with you
Hope you have much success
in your future
Best wishes

FEBRUARY makes us weep
For now the boys will all lose sleep.
We have mid graduation for just a few
The one's who always get their cue.
The students who will always work —
And from his studies never shirk.
There's Earl Fitzpatrick, and Prehn too
And getting out just made them blue,
There's no denying Schnell felt bad —
When he had to quit — poor lad.
But now they're gone — so let's cheer them
The boys who are the honor men.

MARCH brings great wisdom to the front
For real true talent we must hunt —
But Rosy Cohen can't be beat
And Fondy never faced defeat.
At all the debates we found the boys
With never ending words — and poise.
Flaherty certainly can debate
And never once against, was fate.
Frank Gordon is a gilt edge student
And in his speeches — very prudent.
Jerry Keyes displays real technique
Since usually he's so very meek.

APRIL is no fool's day here —
For Fondy students we must cheer.
They never skip a day of school —
They use their wisdom as a tool.
Now*Phyllis Berry's* always ready
With her speech — which seems to flow so steady.
But her lessons aren't like Vernie Snow's —
He always has excellent work, you know?
And Art Wagner never dreams
As some boy's fancy — making schemes
Rose Beaudreau never thought to shirk
From her endless amount of school work.

MAY might mean spring teas 'n things —
It might also mean our minds take wings
The anxiety for May pole dances
May lead one into wildest trances
But we still find fellows, the ambitious kind —
Who are looking for work — any kind, they won't mind.
Mr. Theisen gets rid of them in February — still
They keep returning to contest the class will.
They've been doomed to make money — they can't tho they try
Mr. Theisen keeps telling them they will by 'n by.
We hope all mid grad's from now until — when?
Will turn into real energetic young men.

JUNE brings white dresses, white shoes, and curled tresses
One sees halls deserted, and lockers all messes.
Some refunded money you get soon enough —
If you'll just mind your business — and pack up your stuff.
The Seniors are weeping — is it sadness or joy?
They look at the Sophs — what jolly young toys!
Pay up Life subscriptions, your dues, fines, and debts,
Or the teachers will ruin you with worries 'n frets.
Duck that very last picture or some admirers will find
That it's just the one she wants — tho it's not the front kind.
Get a telephone number of two just for fun —
And all in one breath, you find school days are done.
